(New York City) Not everybody celebrates Valentine's Day the same way.

For those of us who prefer our roses thorny and our candy hard, Folsom Street East (<http://www.folsomstreeteast.org>) proudly presents A Fetish for Fashion, our first annual runway show and charity auction to benefit the LGBT Community Center. We invite you to join us on the 3rd floor of 208 West 13th Street on Saturday, February 12th for an evening of polymorphously provocative fetishwear from The NY Eagle Shop, The Leather Man, Wonderwear, and ManSkins NYC. The night's festivities will also include a special appearance by #1 Billboard charting artist Sylvia Tosun (<http://www.seatosun.com/>), who will be performing her new single, "World Keeps Turning."

We can't think of a better way to kick off Fashion Week in NYC -- and support a worthy cause -- than with a runway presentation showcasing some of the city's fiercest leather/fetish/kink-wear designs. In addition to the runway presentation, this year's event will also include a cocktail reception and silent auction of luxury adult items to benefit The Center - including our own "Million-Dollar Jock," which would make even the bravest Victoria's Secret model blush and turn in her wings.

Doors open at 7pm on Saturday night, with the show kicking off around 8pm. Admission for the cocktail reception, auction, and fashion show is $10 for standing room and $15 for seats (while they last) and includes one drink ticket. The after-party will be held at the NY Eagle on 28th Street, with drink specials throughout the evening for fashion show attendees presenting their FSE wristband.
